If you are looking for financial tips, looking to buy or sell items, or even to have an item appraised for current or future value, Silverfox can help you. Silverfox is a 13 year veteran, and has a long established trend in making money decisions that have paid off in the long run for himself and others. He has a large body of repeat customers who are very satisfied with the services that he offers, and we're not just saying that because he offered us a cool, sweet mill to place this add. If you are looking for high-end or rare items, he employs several Silverfox-named vendors withing the Luna city limits, some across from Neben's auction house, as well as 5 in Tokono, Ter Mur and Umbra.
Silverfox is an honest broker, and takes great pride in the services he offers. If you'd like to know more, look for him at the Luna bank, or in the general chat channel.

MINOC IN TALKS WITH MINING FIRM

In an effort to revitalize the state of Minoc's local economy, the Atkins Mining Firm has made an offer to take over operations of the town's assets and modernize its mining practices. Talks are inconclusive as town spokesmen try to find a middle ground between maintaining its autonomy and seizing future economic opportunities.

WOMAN MAIMED IN HORRIBLE CAT WASHING INCIDENT

Following a poor error in judgement, 87 year old Opal Mayhews of Yew was savaged by her 75 pound Siamese by the name of Snapping Pussy, when she attempted to give it a bath. The elderly pensioner is recovering at the local healers and expected to regain consciousness in the next few days.

MIDDLE-AGED WOLF-BOY SAGA ENDS IN BITTER-SWEET RESOLUTION

Repeated attempts to assimilate 40 something year old wolf-boy into human society have ultimately failed, as adoptive parents resolve to return Reggie back to his pack in the wilderness. "We have become so attached to him", says adoptive mother, Joyce, "But, decades of living amongst wolves has ingrained in him certain behaviors that can't be unlearned; like when he drags his hindquarters on the living room carpet." Reggie will be released early this week with a small number of well-wishers present.

MURDER SUSPECT AND WEAPON DISCOVERED AT CRIME SCENE

On Saturday June Twenty Sixth, The Order of Drunken Elders hosted a Clue mystery game at their Falling Waters Fortress. Fifty million gold was awarded for the grand prize in solving the mystery. Players had to investigate, and correctly name the person, place, and murder weapon. Lita revealed Hendall as the suspected murderer who used a longsword in the slaying at the Crafting Hall. It was a lot of great fun with consolation prizes being awarded as well. Thank you for the mystery, ODE!

HANTON FARM CURSED

Local Yew farmer, Jacob Hanton, his land, and livestock allegedly fell under a gypsy cursed as of late. He initially sought help from the Knights of the Crux Ansata, and is rumored to have spoken to Lady Danica Amandine herself. We were informed that he unsuccessfully sought additional assistance from old friends that lived across the land while his wife and kids were safely housed with close relatives. Latest events indicate the curse was ended with the farm lands south of Yew returning back to normal with the aid of the Knights Of the Crux Ansata. Some questions linger aconcerning the incident and why it occurred, but the family is still unsettled following their recent ordeal and has no comment at this time.

LUSH HOUSE OPENING

Sunday, June twenty-sixth, is the grand opening of a new tavern in the lands! The Ode Lush House opens it's doors for the first time with Aulbrey Loveless in charge. We here in Yew know of Aulbrey's reputation, and as of the writing of this article, we wonder if there will be any booze left for the grand opening event. Needless to say, she does know her drinks, as well does the Order of the Drunken Elders. Good luck with the tavern and may it bring great merriment for visitors for years to come.

NOSTALGIC TAVERN EXPERIENCES REAWAKENING

Serpent Cross Tavern opened on the day of May 1st, 1998 by a man named Perianwyr Stormcrow. This patio tavern has stood at ground zero of some of the greatest epics and events that have occurred in the Atlantic's history. From the days it has opened and till this very day, neutrality in a place with so much action was enforced by the barkeeps of the tavern, its very name standing as a symbol of community and goodwill. Serpent Cross, over the years, saw its barstools and dining room as host to literally thousands of plotlines and brainstorm, verbal exchanges and debates about ideas and concepts which would fall to nothing or later come to fruition in the form of new guilds. Most of those words came from a man named Greypawn, who did a fantastic job as a historian. When the tavern opened, Perianwyr was forced to make new furniture every night for the tavern, due to the incidents of people stealing what was made the previous night. This in turn was, when the gods took interest in the tavern and helped out by blessing the furniture so it can no longer be stolen. Over the years, small cluster of buildings sprouted up around the tavern and it's clearing. FogWood Village was brought to life with a library, alchemy lab, catering business, and stables.

The tavern still stands, whereas all the other buildings were lost in a huge storm following Perianwyr's decision to move from FogWood after eleven years of living there.

In recent days Serpent Cross has experienced greater activity with frequent casual visits. Saturday night marked an celebration at the tavern following a successful Clue game that ODE hosted for guests to solve a murder mystery.

The tavern in its heyday used to have running hours from nine pm eastern till eleven every night. We shall do our best to work the hours again or just offer a drink to whomever wishes to drop in and say hello.
A new set of housing is building up around the tavern these days as well, by the guild of Wheel of Time. We are curious to see what the future will bring for the old Serpent Cross.
Last May marked the Serpent Cross Tavern's
fourteenth anniversary, and we would like to thank all the people who have helped when the tavern had gotten so busy at times. We'd also like to thank the bartenders throughout the years that made things happen. Perianwyr
Stormcrow, Lilliana Rune,
Renee Garthond, Tobin, Shiela, Vander Vol, as well as many others that time.
Regards, Hendall
